The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1882.

LORD GRANVILLE's disclaimer of any agreement between England and France for a joint occupation of Egypt in the event of anarchy ensuing, though satisfactory in itself, raises unpleasant reflections as to the influence of France over the policy of the British Foreign Office. The joint Note which was presented to the Khedive a few weeks ago we are now told departed in no way from the tenour of Lord Granville's previous despatch. If that were so, it is difficult to see what occasion there could have been for the joint Note, except that it was forced out of England by the impatience of France. Lord Granville, in his despatch, grounded England's policy on the necessity of maintaining the connection between Turkey and Egypt. The object of France, it is well known, is to overthrow the Sultan's authority in an extensive area of the Ottoman Empire in which by a considerable stretch of imagination she conceives she has interests. These interests are not such as England is accustomed to recognise as factors in foreign policy, for, as it happens, they are either financial or sentimental, and unfortunately there is an undue proportion of the former. France having once got her meddlesome finger into Egyptian affairs, it remains for us only to render it as harmless as possible. Having no direct interest in Egypt which we care to recognise, beyond the benevolent desire to see the country peaceful and well governed, it is evident the safety of our road to India would be more likely to be secured by the presence of a neutral Power at Cairo than by our assumption of the government of a people who do not appear to want us, and would be disposed to resent our intervention. We are glad, therefore, that there is no intention to land either French marines or sepoys to overawe Arabi Bey or protect the Khedive. Our object should be to maintain the suzerainty of the Sultan, and above all things, we should beware of being inveigled by France into her anti-Islamic intrigues. If we were to take Arabi Bey by his own description of himself in the Times, we should say that his aims were by no means incompatible with our Egyptian policy. Circumstances have made him an enemy of the European control, but it is just possible that the so-called "Nationalist" party would be a better antidote to French ambition than the ingenuity of our diplomatic agents. The idea ought to be considered, and as we have no interest in intervening, it might be worth while giving it a trial.

AT the distribution of prizes to the successful students at the Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy School of Arts on Saturday, Mr. Griffiths, in the course of a highly satisfactory report, took occasion to make a suggestion which it is to be hoped will be taken up by the Government and the public. The School of Arts is gradually training students who will have of course to follow art as a business hereafter, and it is a matter of [illegible] meet with general approval. Mr. Griffiths proposes that the vacant space eastward of the School of Arts should be turned to account for the buildings which would be necessary. There is no doubt as Mr. Ashburner remarked in the course of a very suggestive address, that the influence of the training at the Rajkoomar College of so many of the future Chiefs of the Native States will infallibly make itself felt in raising the standard of taste throughout the native courts of India, and in the not very remote future there will be an active demand for the art students of Bombay to design and decorate the palaces of the princes and great men of the country. Already the difficulty of obtaining employment, which was so disheartening to the students but a few years since, is disappearing. If then something be done to elevate the taste of the general public, the art schools of this city may yet take high rank, and be productive of much good in arresting the decline of art throughout India. Mr. Ashburner mentioned that many of the works of art executed in the school have been distributed in the art schools in Europe as models of design, colour, and form. It is encouraging, also, to know that a large order has been received from H. R. H. the Prince of Wales for pottery-ware produced in Mr. Terry's department. There is evidently good material to work upon, and it is to be hoped that the Government and the Municipality, and rich citizens of Bombay, will turn a willing ear to the proposal which Mr. Griffiths has laid before the public for the creation of an art museum and picture gallery in this city.

IT is quite time that the dispute between the Government of India and the B. B. and C. I. Railway, as to the respective shares of the through rates on grain from Delhi to Bombay, should be settled. A rapidly developing trade has suddenly been throttled. A few months ago contracts for the delivery of Delhi wheat in Bombay could be made with the native dealers to any amount; now not one will sign a contract. The subject of dispute is that which always arises when there is through traffic over different lines of railway. The position taken up by Government is, we understand, that as it costs more to work the Rajputana Railway than the B. B. and C. I., it would not be fair to the former to divide the rate per mile; that the B. B. and C. I. have a perfectly level line to haul over, enabling then to carry longer trains, and have also cheaper coal; and that therefore the same mileage rate would give the Bombay Railway a profit, when it might return a loss to the Rajputana. The Agent of the B. B. and C. I. Railway, on the other hand contends, we are told, that while his railway works cheaper than the Rajputana, its capital debt is much heavier owing to its comparatively heavy cost of construction, and that this is an offset to the heavier cost of working the Rajputana line; also that a mileage rate—that is, a division of the receipts according to the miles run on each, or a division of the through rate according to the actual work done by each company—is the only fair basis of division; that one company should not suffer because another works expensively. That would be a very unimportant question upon which a plausible case could not be made out on either side, and in this case each party has reasonable grounds to urge for its position. Meantime, however, business suffers. It is for the interest of the country that the trade should be developed. While we recognise the fact that it is the Government, that is the tax-payer, who will suffer by any lower share of the through rate accepted for the Rajputana line, we also see that it is the same interests that gain in the development of the country and in the extension of trade; moreover, half the profits of the B. B. and C. I. Railway over five per cent. will also come back to Government. There would appear, therefore, less reason for Government to take up an uncompromising position on this question than a private company could reasonably do if it owned the Rajputana line. On the other hand, it is for the interest of the B. B. and C. I. Railway to develope this through traffic, and to thus utilize to the utmost the capital in land and stock which it has invested. It seems to us a clear case for compromise; and if the two parties cannot agree they should leave it to arbitration. It would not be difficult to find some person of business experience, and of ability, whom both parties could trust to give a fair decision in the matter. In the interest of trade a settlement of some kind should be come to.

THE proposition which the Port Trust lately submitted to the Bombay Government, asking for its guarantee to the loans of the Trust to enable the Trustees to redeem the rates of interest on their capital debt, was, we learn, approved by the Local Government, and sent to the Supreme Government for its sanction and for authority to introduce the necessary legislation. This has been granted, and the Trustees have been asked to prepare a Bill for submission to the Bombay Legislative Council. We published a month or two ago, Mr. Kittredge's letter bringing the proposal before the Trustees, and we need not repeat the advantages which this legislation will put into the hands of the Trustees in the matter of their heavy yearly charge for interest. We understand that the Viceroy in Council restricts the guarantee to the debt already incurred, recognising the part which the Government had in putting this heavy burden on the trade of Bombay, and also the fact that the Local Government now practically guarantees the loan. The Supreme Government is opposed to State guarantees to loans raised by public bodies generally, but sanctions the proposal to give the guarantee of the Local Government to the present debt of the Trust on account of the exceptional circumstances under which the debt was created.

IT is understood that Mr. Lee Warner, C. S., Mr. H. P. Jacob of the Educational Department, and Mr. Kashinath Trimbuk Telang, barrister-at-law, have been invited on the part of the Bombay Government to represent this Presidency at the Conference on Education which is about to meet at Calcutta, and that all these gentlemen have signified their willingness to act. The names will, we think, meet with general approval. Mr. [illegible] a splendid evidence that this idea is not impracticable or far-fetched. Mr. Griffiths proposes that the vacant space eastward of the School of Arts should be turned to account for the buildings which would be necessary. There is no doubt as Mr. Ashburner remarked in the course of a very suggestive address, that the influence of the training at the Rajkoomar College of so many of the future Chiefs of the Native States will infallibly make itself felt in raising the standard of taste throughout the native courts of India, and in the not very remote future there will be an active demand for the art students of Bombay to design and decorate the palaces of the princes and great men of the country. HIS HIGHNESS RANA JALAMSINGJI, ex-Member of the Council of Regency in Cutch, and a relative of His Highness the Rao, leaves Bombay to-day, we understand, by rail to return to Cutch, after a stay at the Presidency of over a twelvemonth. It seems Government are satisfied that there is no truth whatever in the reports which implicated the Rana in the attempted exodus from their native land of a large body of Cutch peasantry during the last monsoon, and that they accordingly see no objection to his going there. If this be the result of Sir James Fergusson's personal inquries on the spot during His Excellency's recent visit to Cutch, we venture to remark that many of the complications which culminated in the overthrow of the late administration in Cutch would have been avoided if the Government had thought fit to put themselves on the right scent about them.

BEJAPUR.

MOST things in this world that we set great store by and desire very much are so long in reaching us, or rather we are so long commonly in attaining them, that we can hardly realise them when possession arrives at last. It was so with us last month. We could scarcely believe that we were really off to see the far-famed ruins of Bejapur. The first grey tints of dawn were beginning to show themselves as we left the station at Sholapur in a well-packed tonga. The air was fresh and crisp. The road for the first few miles lay between shady trees and cultiv

SIR CHARLES AITCHISON is expected to leave England for India, to take up his appointment as Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, about the 24th inst.

IT is rumoured that Sir Auckland Colvin will return to this country before the end of the year.

THE Statesman has received from Rangoon a telegram to the effect that the Mandalay monopolies are abolished.

OTHER advices from Rangoon are to the effect that King Theebaw has been so far moved by the remonstrance addressed to him that he contemplates sending an Embassy to Calcutta.

H. B. M. AMBASSADOR at Constantinople telegraphs as follows under date 4th instant :—"Quarantine restrictions on arrivals from Aden, Bombay, and India in general have been removed."

A TELEGRAM from the Political Resident, Aden, dated 2nd February, to the Chief Secretary to the Bombay Government, communicated to us from the Secretariat, says :—"The Italian Consul here informs me that quarantine has been raised at Naples and Brindisi since the 29th ultimo."

WE would advise subscribers to the Telephone Exchange to adhere to the old system of communication by chit if they have anything of a private and particular nature to say. On Saturday morning, we are credibly informed, a subscriber to the Exchange was called to his telephone by the bell ringing, and on applying the instrument to his ear, was placed in possession of the gratifying intelligence that two gentlemen who were at the ball the night previous were feeling perfectly "fit" and well, and of the further interesting item that one of the said gentlemen intended to be present at the Volunteer parade in the afternoon. Every word uttered by both gentlemen engaged in this private and confidential conversation was plainly audible. It is perhaps as well, to prevent possible awkward consequences, that members of the Exchange should be warned that any message transmitted through the telephone is liable to be heard by other subscribers, in addition to the particular one for whose private ear alone it may be intended.

THE North-West Provinces crop and weather report for the week ended the 1st February states :—Rain has fallen in Kumaun and Meerut division ; elsewhere none. Rabi, on the whole, promises fairly except on unirrigated lands. Prices generally stationary. Sporadic cases of cholera amongst pilgrims returning from Allahabad, but disease not spreading. Otherwise health good. Cattle disease continues in Jhansi and Kumaun.

THE Pioneer explains :—By a mistake in a telegram from Calcutta we were led to announce that "Mr. Clive" had been appointed to officiate for Mr. Halsey as Commissioner of Inland Revenue. The officer appointed is Mr. A. D. Carey, of the Bombay Civil Service, who has been Collector of Salt Revenue for the Bombay Presidency for nearly a year past.

SIX rifles and two bayonets were stolen on the night of the 24th January from a picket of the 35th Native Infantry at Peshawur. Another case in which one rifle was stolen was reported a few days before.

THE leading paper of the Punjab says "it is a positive disgrace to the Province that its capital should be one of the nastiest spots east of Suez. The nearer the church the farther from heaven : and though Lahore is the medical and sanitary head-quarters of the Punjab, it is still, in many quarters, as foul as any pig-stye."

THE Statesman of Wednesday last wrote :—It is with deep regret that we learn the Mrs. Baring's illness had assumed so serious a form last night that the worst was feared. In spite of the best medical skill, she appeared to be gradually sinking from exhaustion. This is our latest news before going to press, but we may still venture to hope that she will revive with the new day."

IT is reported that the Begum of Bhopal contemplates visiting Calcutta about the end of next month.

RELATIVE to Mr. Wedderburn's proposals for encouraging domestic industries amongst the ryots, the Bombay Chronicle says :—The letter of Mr. W. Wedderburn, dated Ahmednugger, January 30, and published in the Bombay Gazette, is another effort of that good friend of the ryot in India for bettering his condition. The direct or chief object of the communication of Mr. Wedderburn is to point out how Agricultural Banks, when properly managed, prove the means of aiding the domestic industries of the cultivators of the soil when relieved from or not required to be busy with the work of husbandry. These industries in many countries form important auxiliary sources of the prosperity of the peasant as stated by Mr. Wedderburn. In India when the ryot in days of old had done with ploughing the field and reaping the harvest, he busied himself and family with different kinds of industries, the fruits of which served to add to the necessaries and comforts of life, in the manner of the German, the Japanese, and others of the present day, as instanced by Mr. Wedderburn. But unfortunately the happy process, as stated by that gentleman, "has been reversed, and the ryot is gradually losing such auxiliary means of support." The villagers in India now-a-days, instead of being engaged in prosperous home industries as in olden times, are found idly whiling away their time in market-places, owing to the want of anything to do on the termination of the periodical labours in the fields.

THE Amrita Bazaar Patrika says :—We hear that the Jessore case of Mr. O'Donnell is not yet before the Indian Government, the papers being still in the Bengal Office. By the way, is it true—we are assured it is—that Mr. Risch went to Jessore the other day to inquire into the O'Donnell affair, and that he is going to England for six months, to be on the spot to defend Sir Ashley Eden ? Mr. O'Donnell has already left for home.

THE Indian Mirror is highly pleased at the prospect of the departure of Mr. Whitley Stokes, whom it unkindly describes as about to "leave the country for the country's good ;" but does not relish the prospect of the appointment of Mr. Cunningham in Mr. Stokes' place :—"If a Legislative Member is really necessary, we want a man of quite a different calibre from either Mr. Cunningham or Mr. Stokes. But we submit for consideration whether, in public interests, the office may not be altogether abolished. With a Secretary and Deputy Secretary in the Legislative Department, supposed from their selection for the duty, to be qualified for the work of drafting Acts with the necessary formality and accuracy, the Council should certainly not require a special Legislative colleague, since even with such a colleague its enactments have so frequently, in many cases, undergone revision. Our laws could hardly have been framed worse than under Mr. Stokes' tenure of the Legislative Membership ; and the saving by the abolition of the office will be a great gain to the country."

WE have received from the Marine Survey Department its 7th edition of a detailed description of all the lighthouses and light-vessels in British India. The book has been corrected from official information to 1st January, 1882, by Mr. R. C. Carrington, Assoc. Inst. C. E.

THE Bengal Chamber of Commerce has written to the Government of Bengal stating objections to the proposed legislation to prevent destitute stowaways brought out in ships getting adrift in India. With regard to an assertion made in the "Statement of objects and reasons" for the Stowaways' Bill, that "on a rough average stowaways are found in 20 per cent. of the vessels visiting Calcutta," the Chamber has made inquiries, and finds that in 1881 up to the 10th October only five stowaways were reported to the police. In 1880 twenty-six stowaways were reported, but ten of these returned as seamen in the vessels in which they came, and the remainder secured employment in other ships. The percentage of ships that brought out stowaways in the year 1880-81, instead of reaching 20 per cent., was hardly 2½ per cent. Upon the facts elicited, the Chamber urges that "the proposed legislation is altogether uncalled for," and it submits further that "if it is not merely superfluous : clauses 5 and 6 are harsh and unjust." With reference to section No. 5, the Chamber submits it would be the height of injustice "that a master who has had the unwelcome society of a stowaway for three months is himself to be imprisoned in an Indian jail during another three months, and to be fined Rs. 1,000, because the man has slipped out of the ship, during discharge, in the same impalpable manner in which he boarded her ;" and the promoter of the Bill is called on to explain how, unless he should "perpetrate the cruelty of keeping a stowaway in irons during the period of a vessel's stay in port," the master of a ship can effectually prevent the man from getting ashore. Section No. 6 proposes to enact that the agent of a vessel is to answer to Government for all charges and expenses incurred on a stowaway within one year of his being suffered to land without the permission of the authorities. The Chamber represents that such a clause must have been introduced under a misconception of the nature of ship agency as it exists here. "In some instances, no doubt, the agent is the regular and accredited representative of the shipowner ; but in the great majority of cases he is nothing of the sort. The charterer of a vessel often acts as her agent for purposes of entrance and clearance at the Custom House, and nothing is more common than for an owner to employ a different agent nearly every time his ship visits the port. The balance of account is remitted or drawn for very soon after the ship sails, and the correspondence between principal and agent ceases, perhaps for ever. It is evident, therefore, that to keep an unascertainable liability hanging over the agent's head for twelve months is to introduce into business relations a new element of a highly inconvenient character, and the Chamber therefore earnestly protests against any attempt being made to hold a ship agent legally responsible, after a vessel has sailed, for distant consequences of the deeds or omissions of captain or owner."

REMARKING that courts-martial for insubordination on soldiers belonging to British regiments in India have been painfully frequent of late, and severe sentences seem to have no deterrent effect, the Pioneer adds :—It is conjectured that the Army Discipline Act is at the bottom of the mischief. Under this Act, men sentenced to a term of imprisonment exceeding one year, or to penal servitude, must be sent to England as quickly as possible to undergo their punishment there. The court which has tried a prisoner may order some portion of the imprisonment to be undergone in India, but "reasons" must be given for such an order, and the Act is so badly framed that it does not state in any way what "reasons" would justify this course being taken—in fact, it is an open question whether legally such procedure can be followed. Hence soldiers who are tired of the Army and anxious at all costs to leave India, commit some offence which brings them before a court-martial, and in due course they are sent to an English jail. There they know that by good behaviour part of their sentence will be remitted, and by the time they have completed their term of imprisonment, their engagement to serve in the Army has expired, and they are free men once more. It is strange and distressing that any soldier should find it better to spend three or four years in a jail than in barracks, especially as short service now affords hope of release at no very distant period for men who may regret the step they took on enlistment ; but there seems reason to believe that the desire for change in some cases becomes strong enough to provoke the choice described. In 1870, in consequence of rules having been enforced under which men convicted by courts-martial were sent to jails in England, insubordination became terribly prevalent : there were 170 men convicted of the crime in that year alone. Lord Napier, then Commander-in-Chief, represented the matter so strongly to the home authorities, that upon his recommendation part of the terms of imprisonment and penal servitude was ordered to be undergone in India. The effect was striking : in 1871, the first year in which the new orders came into effect, there were only 60 convictions for insubordination, and the number steadily declined until it was below 40 per annum. Now, unhappily, a re-action has taken place again, and the past year can almost compare with 1870.

IN connection with Sir John Holker's withdrawal from political life it is worth while, thinks the Pall Mall Gazette, to recall the fact that by far his most successful effort in the House of Commons was his masterly speech introducing the Criminal Code Bill. It was through no fault of his that that much-needed measure did not pass into law, and it will be a reproach to his Liberal successors in office if they do not, as opportunity offers, emulate his example. The last two sessions have denied them the opportunity ; may they have better luck in that which is about to begin ! After all, this task ought not to be very difficult. No measure of equal importance has ever come before Parliament with so many circumstances in its favour. It was drawn by a first-rate hand ; it was revised by an authoritative Commission ; both parties are pledged to its main principles ; and the present House of Commons is probably the most "learned" of the century. This last is, however, a possible source of danger to the bill, and the lawyers in the House will have to resist some temptation in abstaining from a too minute criticism of details.

ALTHOUGH the St. Gothard Tunnel is open for traffic, and the mails, which at this season were carried over the Pass in sleighs attended by men and dogs to clear the precipitous paths, can now run through without danger or delay, it is as well that the travelling public should know how much of this great work is really completed. Of the entire Alpine Railway destined to succeed the old road route of the St. Gothard, the tunnel is the only portion at present finished. And from Lucerne, on the north side, to the Italian lakes on the south, this engineering triumph forms in point of distance but an insignificant part. For some months at least the steam-boats must ply as of old across the Lake from Lucerne to Flüelen, and thence the lumbering diligence must make its gradual ascent to the tunnel at Göschenen. The southern descent from Airolo is continued by diligence to Fiasca, where the Italian railway has its present terminus. When the connecting railways are finished the new route, with its "through bookings" from England and Italy, which at least one English company is arranging, will be available and valuable. Until then it can be of little practical advantage, and can enjoy only a limited and local traffic.

FOR many years the demand of France and Germany for remounts has been confidently calculated upon by English horse breeders ; but it would seem that in this market England is being undersold by America. French agents are out with orders for no fewer than five thousand horses for the French army. They are to be shipped to Havre in batches of 250 at a time. Freight and keep across the Atlantic is £9 sterling per head, and the horses are picked up at £18 to £23 each in St. Louis. These American horses are said to be too light for our soldiers, who are said to ride on an average five stone heavier than Frenchmen. An American shipper says the horses are "miserable specimens, good for nothing except for scarecrows. But they are just the thing to carry a Frenchman into or out of a fight, as they are hardy and spirited." Three years ago, it is said, 2,000 American horses were shipped to London, to the Metropolitan Tramway Company, and a letter is quoted from Mr. C. A. Smith, chairman of the company, to the effect that "the American horses are the toughest and most hardy of any that we can get. I would give two French horses for one American one any day."

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

A GOOD house met on Saturday night at the Gaiety to witness the representation of H. J. Byron's comedy "Weak Woman." Considering that the piece was a new one to the company, it was well played, and the audience were fairly appreciative. The play is smartly written and contains some dramatic situations, although the author's long connection with burlesque has stamped it, in parts, with a strong colour of exaggeration and caricature. Captain Ginger, for instance, a braggart, impecunious money-hunter, is not, we should think, a very probable character, but one whom even the most listless of our local absentee Volunteers would disclaim as a member of the Auxiliary Forces. But Mr. Tapping, to whom the rôle was entrusted, entered into the fun with spirit—in fact, evinced some tendency to make too much of his part—and in his scene with Mrs. Gunn (Mrs. Norville), the relict of the small gentleman who was playfully spoken of during his lifetime among his friends as Pistol, was very amusing. Mrs. Norville enacted the part of the old lady naturally, and therefore successfully ; she was amorously demure and shrinkingly affectionate, and her by-play was excellent. The two best characters, however, and those which on this occasion found the most careful exponents, were those of Helen Gaythorne (Miss Edith Wilson) and Doctor Fleming (Mr. J. B. Ferrell). Miss Wilson was lady-like and careful, and "weak woman" though she proved herself, was a very charming one. Mr. Ferrell made a capital old man ; as the deus ex machinâ who eventually smooths over the difficulties of the several characters, even the pecuniary embarrassments of Captain "Gingaw," he was a fussy, genial, kind hearted adviser. Mr. Merer, in the small part of Frederick Fanshaw, the debonnair hero, was fairly successful. The piece would, no doubt, run more evenly on a second representation.

THE GOVERNOR'S REPLY TO THE NATIVE MERCHANTS' ADDRESS.

THE following is a copy of a letter received by Mr. Mooljee Jewraj, Chairman of the Bombay Native Merchants' Association, from Mr. Hart, Private Secretary to H. E. the Governor, in reply to the letter of condolence recently addressed to His Excellency on behalf of the Association :—

DEAR SIR,—I am desired by His Excellency Sir James Fergusson to return his grateful thanks for the expressions of sympathy in his recent affliction contained in the address of condolence from the Bombay Native Merchants' Association which accompanied your letter of the 28th ultimo. It affords His Excellency real consolation to know that so many of the educated native gentlemen of this country have felt so much respect and regard for his deceased wife. His Excellency is also greatly sustained by the considerate sympathy of the community of which they represent an important section.—I remain, yours very truly,

THE RANA OF CUTCH.

ON Saturday evening a number of the subjects of the Cutch State, resident in Bombay, gave an entertainment at Mr. Nana Sunkersett's bungalow, Gowalia Tank-road, to H. H. Jalamsingjibhai, the Rana of Cutch, who is now, with the sanction of the Bombay Government, returning to Cutch. All the leading Bhattia and Khoja merchants of this city were present on the occasion to testify their respect for His Highness and the family of the Maharana of Cutch. The following address was presented to His Highness :—

TO RANA JALAMSINGJI, Sirdar, &c., of Cutch.

RANA SAHEB,—We, the undersigned inhabitants of Cutch, desire to express our sentiments of loyalty by presenting you with this address before your departure for Bhuj. Before our good "subjects' protector," the late Maharao Shree Pragmalji, died in Samvat 1932 (1876-77), he with his well-known usual foresight made a will as to how his Raj and his family affairs should be conducted. According to his desire expressed in that will, the British Government had also selected Dewan Saheb Rao Bahadur Manibhai and yourself in the Regency. By this arrangement, which our Rao Saheb had made with a view to the welfare of his people, the subjects of Cutch had enjoyed such happiness and satisfaction that when Dewan Saheb Rao Bahadur Manibhai had visited Bombay in Samvat 1935, all the Cutchee subjects had, with a manifestation of great satisfaction, given him a public reception and honour such as had not been accorded to any other official of Cutch. You were one of this Regency Council ; moreover, Maharao Shree Pragmalji had confided to you another very important matter, viz., to educate our present Maharao Shree Khengarji, so as to prepare him to be fit for his high destiny of ruling over his subjects. We feel greatly gratified in now stating that you have discharged this trust reposed in you by the late Rao Saheb most satisfactorily. We have known that the teacher, the Political Agents, and their Excellencies the Governors have several times expressed their approval and satisfaction at the progress in the education and mental abilities of Maharao Shree Khengarji, and many of us have personally observed the Maharao Shree's princely qualifications. We are therefore very much gratified and delighted ; and for the anxious exertions and care which, for this purpose, Maharani Saheb and yourself have always evinced we take this opportunity of expressing our obligations, which you will kindly communicate to Maharani Saheb, and accept yourself. We pray to God and hope that Maharao Shree Khengarji may soon take the reins of government into his own hands, and by means of the good and high qualifications he has acquired promote the prosperity and happiness of his subjects. Amen ! Amen ! (Applause) (Signed by about five thousand Cutchi subjects residing in Bombay.)

THE Rana of Cutch, in replying to the address, said that he would at the very outset express his obligations to the assembly for the honour they had done him that evening. It was well known that the subjects of Cutch entertained great affection towards their sovereign. When his late Highness Maharao Shree Pragmalji came here, he (the Rana) was present during the several kindly receptions given him. He knew it gave the Maharao intense pleasure to observe the affection of his subjects towards him, and that they were happy and prosperous. The great honour which the subjects of Cutch did to Dewan Rao Bahadoor Manibhai in Samvat 1935, when he visited Bombay, was made known to Her Highness the Maharani Saheb and to His Highness Maharao Shree Khengarji, and they were also very much gratified. The rise and progress of the arts, trades, and other industries of the people of Cutch, were well known in this and other countries, and it was natural that not only the Maharao's family, but all connected with the country, felt gratified at such progress in the prosperity and happiness of the Cutch people. What they said about the education of Maharao Shree Khengarji was true. The late Maharao Pragmalji wished much to give a high education to his heir. Among his other wishes, he had communicated this one to him (the Rana) on his death-bed. It was his (the Rana's) endeavour to discharge all the trusts committed to him by his late Highness to the best of his ability. It was also natural that as a Rajput he should serve the State heartily, from the long connection of some generations between Maharao and his families. So he was only doing his duty, and nothing more to do all he could, aided by Maharani Saheb, for the education of Maharao Shree Khengarji ; and the high opinion they entertained of his services very gratifying. It would encourage him for the future. He would communicate to the Maharani Saheb what they stated and he was confident that she would also feel highly gratified. To protect the people was considered by their former kings a duty, and they acted accordingly ; and considering the people's happiness as their own, they exerted themselves to satisfy the people. The paramount British Power also had the same views. From the high and liberal education the young prince had received, he was able to say that Maharao Shri Khengarji would fully realize the old relationship of father and children between the kings of Cutch and their subjects, and that he promote in every way the happiness and prosperity of the country over which he would have the honour to rule. For the very gratifying kindness with which they had received him this honour he again expressed his sincere thanks. The reply was listened to with great attention, and at its conclusion was loudly applauded.

AMONGST those present, we observed :—Mr. and Mrs. Watkin, Miss Kelly, Messrs. Geary, J. Durie, P. Ryan, Hardcastle, Captain Russel, Messrs. Byramjee Jeejeebhoy, C. S. I., Dinshaw M. Petit, Nanabhoy Byramjee Jeejeebhoy, Rustomjee A. B. Jeejeebhoy, Framjee M. Petit, Bomanjee D. Petit, Nusserwanjee M. Petit, Jamsetjee N. Petit, Ghellabhoy Haridas, Munjibhoy Nuthoobhoy, Hormusjee N. Refreshments were provided for those who were not orthodox Hindus.

H. H. the Rana returned the compliment by inviting last night a number of his native and European friends to an entertainment at his residence at Breach Candy.

THE KOLHAPUR LIBEL CASE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Will you allow me to say a few words in reply to the letter published in the Bombay Gazette of the 2nd instant, signed by "Spectator," who, it seems from the way of his writing, looks at the native community generally through bad spectacles ? "Spectator" finds fault with the whole native press, as well as the native community, in connection with the alleged misconduct of Mr. Barve, and the alleged defamatory writings of the Kesari and the Mahratta newspapers, as if Mr. Barve were the standard of the native moral and intellectual character, and as if the Mahratta and the Kesari alone constitute the whole native press. This supposition of "Spectator" is totally absurd and unwarranted. I humbly ask "Spectator" what opinion does he form about the English press and English statesmen from the hearing of the libel case against the London Statesman ? Does he think, from that case, that the whole English press and English statesmanship are bad ? If he thinks so, then I have nothing to say ; and if not, then I suppose his "natural deduction" means nothing but to suggest the continuance of total exclusion of natives from higher offices under Government which already exists.

THE TOWERS OF SILENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—"Aidos'" letter in your to-day's issue speaks for itself. In toto it is couched in a spirit of unbecoming indignation. He ought to have been more careful before launching forth into false statements and harsh epithets. His denomination of the Towers of Silence as "a hideous charnel-house" is calculated to offend the religious feelings of a portion of the loyal subjects of India. Had he studiously investigated the matter before committing his thoughts to paper, he would not have put to question the present possession of the spot. When out of respect to our sacred religion even one of the most despotic forms of Government, modern Persia, though harsh and oppressive in all other respects, does grant a lofty eminence for the repose of our dead, it is most absurd and ridiculous to suppose that our benign Government would in any way be actuated by vague incubrations and illogical arguments to remove our Towers of Silence, and hurt the religious sentiments of the Zoroastrian community.

Feb. 3. A PERSIAN PARSEE.

II.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—I should like to ask a few questions concerning the removal of these public nuisances. If Mr. Brown commits a nuisance by defiling the water of Mr. Smith's well, why not the latter ? Does Mr. Smith set to work to devise an elaborate scheme, and carry it out at his own expense, so as to enable Mr. Brown to continue the nuisance ? No, Mr. Smith brings an action against Mr. Brown, or applies for an injunction against him, or takes them into the Police Court, and so stops the nuisance ; and if any expensive works have to be constructed for the purpose, it is Mr. Brown who has to pay for them—not Mr. Smith. Why can't the Municipal authorities do their business in this way ? Why don't they make the trustees of the Towers of Silence (who are awfully rich, they say) pay for remedying the nuisance, if it is committed by their birds.
